Newspapers, magazines and radio and television stations all over the world had reported on the proceedings of the Summit Conference in Addis Ababa, often from various angles. Such reports, of course, had not satisfied the curiosity of those who were far away but were watching the Conference with keen interest. Nothing but a detailed and correct recording of the proceedings of the Conference can meet the demands of these people.

Not only to meet such demands but also to constitute the record of the proceedings of the Conference, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Ethiopia had recently published in two volumes the work of the Preparatory Conference of Foreign Ministers, the text of the speeches by the various Heads of State and Government as well as the Charter and the resolutions adopted by the Conference. This was a complete work and naturally had to be big in size.

The purpose of this book is again to provide as much documentary information on the Conference as possible. However, this book does not contain all the speeches of the various Heads of State and Government in verbatim. Instead only excerpts have been included where the speeches are long. Great care has been taken to ensure that no suggestions, recommendations or proposals made by any Head of State and Government are omitted.

An important feature of this book is the illustrations. Some 90 photographs representing the various stages of the Conference and the activities of the Heads of State and Government are printed in this book in the hope that they will give a clear picture to the readers about the whole Conference. The photographs were taken by the staff of the Ministry of Information of Ethiopia, and have been selected from among hundreds in order to make them as representative as possible.

This book, in short, is an «everyman's edition». Those who want still more details are referred to the publications of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Ethiopia.

Large crowds of Ethiopians assembled at the Bole International Airport to accord welcome and extend traditional hospitality to the visiting leaders.

ETHIOPIA AND AFRICAN UNITY

A single Charter for the whole of Africa, containing as many as 33 Chapters, was signed at Addis Ababa on May 25, 1963, at the conclusion of a four-day Conference of Heads of Independent African States sequel to an 8-day Foreign Ministers' meeting. The signing ceremony was inspiring, exciting and, indeed, impressive. It marked the laying of a firm foundation for Africa's unity and progress and the opening of a new chapter in the political history of the Continent.

The event was unique and significant in many respects. The decisions of the Conference reflected the desires and aspirations of nearly 250 million inhabitants of this Continent who live under similar or different political systems and of whom a little over 200 million are breathing the free air of independence. The hopes of the colonialists to see a divided Africa are forever blighted and the desires of the Africans to build up a united Africa are being fulfilled. As such, the Addis Ababa Conference, which made these epoch-making accomplishments possible, is significant not only to Africans but also to all people who love peace and freedom all over the world.
